Fish for Russia's Capital.

The arrangements for supplying St. Petersburg with fish are deserving of notice, says the London Standard. The finest kinds, procured from the northern lakes and rivers in autumn, are preserved alive in ponds fed by the Neva at different points of the capital during the winter, each species having a separate compartment to itself. From reservoirs the municipality derives a revenue of 30,000 rubbles. From the Volga and the Dwina arrive every August 25,000 sterlet to delight the palates of epicures who can afford to pay from 5 to 7 rubbles a pound, for the delicacy. Their weight when netted in their native rivers varies from ten to fifteen pounds, of which they lose some 10 per cent, in the waters of the Neva, while, on the other hand, their price is enhanced from two-thirds of a rubble per pound to that already stated. A Berlin banker lately paid 600 rubbles for six of these fish and had them conveyed to his residence in water-tanks specially constructed for the purpose. The poor man's food in lenten time consists mainly of a small fish called metki, which is caught in the lakes and streams of Pskov in great abundance, and conveyed during winter in a congealed state on sledges to the capital; in summer they are dried in the sun and transported on horseback. Their price is St. Petersburg is suited to the lowest capacity of purse. White salmon, pike, trout, and other varieties are caught in vast quantities during the spring and autumn in Lake Ladoga and poured into the metropolitan reservoirs. Sturgeon, not in great number, but sometimes weighing 250 pounds, are contributed to the central depots from the same place. The yearly value of live fish sent from Ladoga is estimated at 1,000,000 rubbles; 100 vessels containing tanks stored with fish go to and fro six times a year, Smelts and lampreys are netted at the mouth of the Neva and in the Gulf of Finland, and supply an extremely economical article of food for the population of the city. The Finns reap an abundant harvest all the year round with their crayfish, and Revel sends 300,000 measures of Esthonian sardines to the same destination every autumn.

A DASTARD'S DEED.

An Old Citizen of Ozark, While Walking on The Highway, is Shot Down by an Unknown Assassin.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—A special from Ozark, Mo., says: About 2 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday, Mob Meadows, an old citizen of Christian county, living sixteen miles south of Ozark, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin, who was secreted in the woods. He and his wife were walking unsuspectingly along a road through a dense growth of trees and underbrush, when the woman was startled by the report of a gun and saw her husband fall lifeless to the ground. He was shot through the breast with a Winchester rifle. Immediately after the shooting Mrs. Meadows says she saw two men run from an ambush near by. This is the forty-third murder in this county since the war.

IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE.

Findlay Jollifies Over the Gifts so Bounteously Bestowed Upon Her by Nature.

FINDLAY, O., June 8.—The great natural gas celebration opened here this morning under the most favorable auspices. The city is decorated in the most lavish manner. Fifty-eight arches span Main street, all bearing mottoes, and all arranged with gas pipes and burners, which, upon each night of the festival, will be lighted, and permitted to burn all night. Thirty thousand gas jets will be in flame to-night, besides those heretofore in use. The thirty-one gas wells of Findlay have all been piped into the city to aid in illumination. Crowds have been coming in all day and it is estimated that by night there will be at least 30,000 strangers in the city. The exercises began this morning by a reception of the guests at the chamber of commerce, after which a procession was formed which marched at 9 o'clock to the Lake Erie and Western railroad depot, where special trains carried the party to the grounds, where the corner stone of the Lagrange mill was laid with appropriate ceremonies and amid great applause. After this the corner stones of the other manufacturing establishments were laid in the following order:

Moore Chair and Furniture company.
Union Boiler works.
Offeo Coil and Cable Chain works.
Findlay Door and Sash Manufacturing company.
Ohio Lantern works.

A visit was then made to the great gas and oil wells near the city.

This afternoon there was a military drill of the Patriarchs Militant, at Camp Garfield, which contested for $1,000 in prizes: $750 to the best company and $250 to the second best.

The afternoon exercises concluded with a visit to the various manufacturing establishments in operation.

The program to-night, which will be held in the wigwam building, especially built for the celebration, embraces a grand gas illumination and addresses of welcome by E. T. Dunn and a response by General T. E. Powell.

SMALL-POX IN CHICAGO.

Several New Cases Develop in the House Where a Victim was Found Saturday.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Several more cases of small-pox were discovered to-day in the same house where an Italian was found suffering with the disease Saturday. After the removal of the Italian to the pest house the house was throughly fumigated and all the occupants vaccinated, but to late to arrest the spread of the disease. As a consequence several children were prostrated this morning. The children have been running about with others in the neighborhood and doubtless many others have been infected.

A Train Derailed and Several Persons Injured.

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 8.—An accommodation train on the St. Louis and Hannibal road was derailed about 4 o'clock yesterday evening, near Frankfort. A lady named Dickinson, from New London, was probably fatallly injured. Another lady had an arm broken. Conductor W. R. Richarden had a leg crushed and Brakeman Mallory, a collar bone broken. No cause is assigned.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Frank R. Lawrence was this morning unanimously re-elected by acclamation for the third time as grand master of the grand lodge of F. and A. M. in the state of New York. John W. Vrooman was elected deputy grand master.

W. E. Chandler for Senator.

CONCORD, N. H., June 7.—Wm. E. Chandler, late secretary of the navy, is at his summer home at Waterloo, quite sure that before the week is ended he will receive the republican nomination for senator, to succeed the late Austin F. Pike, and that later on that nomination will be ratified by an election. That he has good reason to feel confident everybody familiar with the situation must admit. He is sure of the nomination, but there is some talk of a bolt and he is not so sure of being elected.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, June 8.—Temple the American bicyclist, met with a painful accidont yesterday while practicing on the track at the Coventry. He was going at the top of his speed when the machine broke and he was thrown heavily to the ground and was severely cut and bruised.

Mrs. Frost, an aged lady residing in Harrison township, Miama county, arose in the night and walking to the bank of Deer creek, near her home, and jumped into the water. She was insane.

A WATER SPOUT.

Portions of Somerset County, Pa., is Inundated and Whole Villages are Swept Away.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—A special from Johnstown, Pa., says: "The flood yesterday was caused by a water spout west of Hoover's Villa, Somerset county, a village on the line of the Somerset and Cambria railroad. This village was entirely under water, and the destruction of property is great. Many thousand logs, belonging to the Latrobe Lumber company, passed here yesterday. The bridge above here was carried off, and the Kernville bridge was also partly destroyed. The one at Coopersdale was entirely swept away; so was the one at Von Lumens town. The destruction of the property is enormous, but the amount cannot be ascertained now. At Hooversville the work of the flood is appalling. Upwards of twenty residences were washed off their foundations and deposited on the ground. At least 100 families in this borough alone lost everything in the lower story and cellars of their houses.

It is estimated that in the suburbs and this city, 200 people were temporarily rendered homeless and dependant for shelter udon the charity of their more fortunate neighbors. No estimate can be made of the damage at present, but it is thought it will reach $150,000 in this vicinity alone. No lives were lost as far as known.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 8.—Mrs. J. Morrell, relict of the late Hon. D. J. Morrill, died from heart disease last night, supposed to have been caused by water surrounding her house and being several feet in the lower story. Colonel James M. Cooper, a wealthy and influential citizen of Coopersdale, also dropped dead from over excitement. He and Mrs. Morrell were each aged about sixty-five years.

Cora Lee is an adopted daughter of Mrs. Emma Malloy, and the second wife of the dead Graham. The story of the murder in a Missouri cave is familiar.

THE MARKETS.

The Prices From the Great Business Centers of the Country.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The opening of the stock market was weak, the first prices showing declines from ¼ to ½ per cent. generally though Fort Worth and Denver was up ¾ per cent. There was a spurt of activity in the first ten minutes, but it soon died away and became decidedly dull. Late in the hour however, there was again a moderate trading. Prices in the early dealings were irregular, but the movements were insignificant fractions only. The most important being a decline of ¼ per cent. in Kansas and Texas. A general upward movement occurred later, but was followed by a decline. Prices being carried down below the opening figure. At 11 o'clock the market was moderately active, and heavy to weak.

DESPERADOES KILLED.

Two Noted Kentucky Toughs are Shot Down by a Posse of Police.

LOUISVILLE, June 8.—A special to the Times gives the following particulars of the reopening of hostilities in Kentucky's most lawless county, Rowan: "The citizens of Moorehead are again startled by the killing of three men. Yesterday the town marshal of Moorehead, John Manning, had a warrant for the arrest of John and Wm. Logan, sons of the notorious Dr. Henry D. Logan, who is now in the Lexington jail on the charge of murder. Manning went to the house of the Logan boys to arrest them. An old lady said they were not in, when he told her he would have to search the house, and proceeded to do so. As he ascended the stairway, the Logan boys, who were concealed above, fired upon him, inflicting fatal wounds. Manning's posse of two men, who were with him, returned the fire of the Logan boys, killing both.

The Iron and Steel Workers.

PITTSBURG, Jne 8.—At the convention of the amalgamated association of iron and steel workers this morning, a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to regulate the output in the different mills and to secure uniformity prices of work in different mills. One of the principal changes to be made in the constitution is the introduction of a clause admitting colored skilled workmen to membership. This is to be done as a precaution against their joining the Knights of Labor.

An Indiana Man Murdered.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 8.—The body of Logan Belt was found to-day on the road in a dense wood near Shawneetown with a bullet through his heart. He left Shawneetown at 10 o'clock last night on horseback, for home. His horse came home riderless at 2 o'clock this morning. Years ago Belt was tried for murder and acquitted. It is feared that more tragedies will follow.

The President Expected Home on Saturday.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Information has been received at the white house stating that the president and party are expected to arrive there by Saturday.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. W. R. Emery, editor of the Huntington Democrat, was in the city last evening.

At the Episcopal church convention, at Indianapolis, Rev. W. N. Webbe, of this city, was placed on the committee on the "state of the church."

Louis Berger, who was injured at St. Mary's Catholic church yesterday, is getting along nicely under the care of Drs. A. J. Boswell and M. F. Porter.

Sheriff Viberg tells THE SENTINEL that he has retained Albert Black as one of his deputies. Mr. Viberg is negotiating with Ed Clausmeyer, but they have come to no understanding. Mr. Clausmeyer will resign, as he has a choice of two other positions equally as good.

The Western Union telegraph company has been ordered to remove its poles from Calhoun to Clinton street and prominent property holders on Clinton street, have employed Wm. P. Breen to represent them in enjoining the telegraph company from coming on their street.

Drilling at the east end gas well was abandoned to-day. The derrick will at once be transferred to the French brewery where a new well will be driven. The company will put an inch pipe into the east end well and preserve the flow of gas until they can dispose it it. There is talk of building a bath house near the well to use mineral water that flows from it and utilize the gas for heating purposes.

The uniform rank K. of P. has been divided into divisions. The second regiment is composed of: Summit City, No. 12, Fort Wayne; Huntington division, No. 16; Columbia City division, No. 23; Kosciusko division, No. 8, Warsaw; Calantha division, No. 11, Goshen; Elkhart division, No. 13; Noble division, No. 23, Kendallville. As soon as Wabash division is organized it will be attached to this regiment. Fort Wayne is not represented in the new division or grand lodge officers.

Meanest Kind of Meanness.

Mean Man—You seem disturbed about something, Mr. O'Gooligan?

Mr. O'Gooligan—It just makes me blood boil to hear o' the eviction in Oirland.

Mean Man—Then you don't believe in evicting tenants who won't pay?

Mr. O'Gooligan—The bloody landlourd what ud do that should be dynamited, that's what Oi say.

Mean Man—I am glad you feel that way, Mr. O'Gooligan, because your agent has just rented me one of your houses.—Tid Bits.

Vanquished Him.

"Look heah," said an old negro to a young barber, "whut yer comin' 'roun' my house so much fur? I doan owe you nuthin."

"Of course," replied the barber, "you have never inculcated the insinuations of my circumlocution, consequently, I hesitated not to affirm my idiosyncratic nepotism of lymphatic corruscations."

"Well, I declar'!" exclaimed the old man, "I didn't know dat yer wuz dat well erquainted wid de syntax."

"Oh, yes, sir. I am regarded as the nil desperandum of the hemispherical hypertrophy, propinquonized between the heterogeniousness of the sub stratum and the galvanized circumlocution of oxide of simple syrup."

"Take de gal, young man, take de gal. Dar ain't no use'n holdin' up agin it."—Arkansaw Traveler.

THE Queen of Sweden has been operated upon surgically for internal cancer. The work was done at Stockholm by a Swedish surgeon who ranks among the ablest in Europe. It is reported that the operation was as successful as possible, but the dreadful disease is certain soon or late to break out again.

ANOTHER COLLISION.

The Pittsburg Fast Line Dashes Into a Freight Train at Columbiana, Ohio, Last Night.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—The fast line west on the Fort Wayne and Chicago road, which left the city shortly before 12 o'clock last night, ran into a freight train at 2 o'clock this morning, at Columbiana, Ohio. Several freight cars were wrecked and the engine of the passenger train almost completely demolished. Engineer Overland sustained a fracture. The passengers were badly shaken up, but no one was injured. The trains were delayed several hours.

Charley Weaver's Body.

The body of Charley Weaver had not been recovered from the St. Mary's river at 3 o'clock to-day, although every agency known has been utilized to bring it to the surface.

Cartridges have been exploded and seemingly every foot of the river has been dragged. Some incline to the belief that the remains are in the whirlpool.

Struck by Lightning.

HOUGHTON, Mich., June 8.—The Quincy rock house and the drum house were struck by lightning this morning and totally destroyed. Loss, $60,000; insurance unknown.

Looking for His Dove.

A couple—newly married—stopped at the Ryan Hotel for the night. They hailed from somewhere in the valley of the Red district, and had money enough to make a small ripple in the city. The bride retired early, but the groom, still feeling his oats, went out to see the town. He visited a number of the prominent resorts, and about midnight found himself in the hotel elevator. Calmly transfixing the hoist-boy with his eye, he addressed him: "My boyish, swhere's my bridesh? Swhere's my turtle dove?"

The boy, of course, could not answer him. But finding the number of his room, he attempted to take him there.

"Noshir!" said the inebriate. "Ish—hic—warsh shmy cooing dove. She's the rosesh of the valley, she is."

Everybody in the rooms along the hall was awake by this time, and several heads peeped over the transoms.

"Sh's—a—a—a— hic—lambsh," he continued, "a swan of the shea. Where'sh she? Thatsh what I want—hic—to know? Whose stole my cuckoo from mesh?"

By this time they were at the door of his room. It suddenly opened, a hand and arm clothed in white was thrust out, and the unfortunate yanked in with a terrific jerk and this remark:

"Here's your rose of Sharon and lily of the valley, you blamed old fool. Go to bed!"—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1887.

THE democratic administration is beyond reproach.

THE Michigan legislature is working on the liquor question.

GOVERNOR GRAY is instilling a wholesome purity into some of the state institutions.

THE recent cloud burst in Ohio may have been aimed at Senator Sherman's presidential boom.

THE Indianapolis republicans do not seem to be jubilant over the election fraud investigations since their local chairman was indicted.

HON. JOSEPH E. MCDONALD has accepted an invitation to speak at the great democratic barbecue at Lexington, Ky., Wednesday, June 15.

IN accordance with Mayor Stuart's proclamation, the Lafayette Salvation Army have dispensed with singing and tamborine music in their street parades. This is a sensible reform.

THE latest journalistic gossip from New York is to the effect that Charles A. Dana is to retire from active service on the Sun at the close of the year, to be succeeded as editor-in-chief by his son Paul.

THE latest falsehood sent out by the American correspondents at Rome is that the pope is considering the subject of marriage for priests. It is as likely as the oft repeated story of the pope's removal to America.

THE death of Mr. Wheeler leaves Hannibal Hamlin the only living ex-vice president chosen by the people. He will be seventy-eight years of age in August, and he was elected vice president twenty-seven years ago.

THE Northern Indiana editorial convention at Warsaw, this week, promises to be the most successful and interesting ever held. The published program and the pleasant surroundings at the Trilake resort are entertaining and agreeable.

MR. BLAINE duly consulted the "republican machine" before he sailed for Europe. Chairman Jones, it is presumed, will set it in motion to grind out reminders of the Maine statesman, who ruthlessly frowns on Mr. Sherman's boomlet.

HON. ANDREW M. SWEENEY has just been elected for the fourth time the superintendent of the Dubois county public schools. The professor went down last fall with the other gentlemen on the democratic state ticket, but his neighbors, who know him best, continue to honor him.

THE stoppage of the special New York news train on Sundays, by order of the state railroad commission, is a severe blow to the New York city newspapers, and will deprive 100,000 families of that state of their Sunday morning newspapers. It will possibly increase attendance at the churches, however.

UNDER a new law of congress governing contests for seats in the house of representatives, General Clark, the clerk of the latter body, has received and sent to the public printer the testimony in four contested election cases. The cases are known as Frank against Glover, of Missouri; Smalls against Elliott, of South Carolina; Lowry against White, of Indiana, and Worthington against Post, of Illinois.

JUDGE S. S. LUDLUM, of Fort Wayne, died yesterday at Washington, where he held a position in the pension department. Judge Ludlum was a familiar figure in Fort Wayne, having for a long time been associated in the publication of the Journal with Mr. Clark Fairbank and the late Thomas J. Foster. He was a man of considerable ability, and while at the capitol was a correspondent of the Fort Wayne News, as well as a contributor of the Indianapolis Journal.

Sadly Afflicted.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "State House Commissioner Nelson has returned from Fort Wayne, where he attended the funeral of his son, DeGroff Nelson, sheriff of Allen county. The deceased was always an active and influential democrat, receiving the largest vote of any candidate on the county ticket at the last election. Commissioner I. D. G. Nelson has been peculiarly afflicted by family deaths of late. In addition to the death by drowning of his twelve-year-old grandson on the day of his father's nomination for sheriff; he has been called to attend the following family funerals within the last few weeks: Mrs. Delia Bond, mother of his son-in law and close family friend for more than a third of a century; his aged sister, Eliza; the last of the family in direct line; his nephew, Henry B. Rumsey, who so heroically gave his life in trying to snatch a child from the flames of the Richmond hotel conflagration at Buffalo; Judge Samuel E. Sinclair, and now his oldest son, the sheriff of the county, in the prime of life and fullness of health and usefulness."

THERE are more schools in France than in any other country in Europe.

PYTHIAN CONVOCATION.

Meeting of the Grand Lodge in Annual Session—The Reports.

The grand lodge Knights of Pythias of the state met in Castle hall, at Indianapolis yesterday, in nineteenth annual session, with a large attendance of representatives.

The report of the grand chancellor, Charles F. Shively, congratulated the order on its prosperous condition in Indiana, where it now has 153 lodges, an increase of thirty during the last year.

The chancellor in his report set forth at length his decisions on sixty-one questions, which have been submitted to him. The decisions of Chillon lodge in the case of Ernest Mueller, in disciplining him for selling liquor was affirmed, the particular point in it being that a subordinate lodge has the right to prohibit any person from joining the lodge or becoming a member thereof, who is engaged in selling liquor. Of the uniform rank Mr. Shively says:

Too much praise cannot be given to the uniform rank. While it is thought by many that this is the ornamental rank of the order, yet it gives tone and rank and vigor to the order, and is an attraction that leads many a brave and noble youth to join the lodge. In addition to this, it affords a military education and familiarity with the tactics of war that in another hour of peril and danger, which this nation underwent during the dark days of the late rebellion, it might prove of some considerable advantage to the national government.

Of the endowment rank he says:

The endowment rank has proven itself a very worthy adjunct to the order at large. Furnishing a cheap and ready life insurance, it has on many occasions, when the grim monster of death has stalked into the family circle and taken therefrom the husband and father, proven itself a valuable friend and assistant so far as this world's goods concern us. It should be encouraged and fostered by all members of the order, and, I desire to add, jealously guarded that it may be kept in its present excellent and efficient condition. I especially recommend it to all the new lodges, and trust that they will not be slow in organizing a section of the endowment rank within their lodges.

The address, which had much to commend it in a literary way, concluded with an admonition to the Knights to be faithful to the cause and work unceasingly for it.

Frank Bowers, grand keeper of records and seals, also submitted a lengthy and comprehensive report, giving the details of the work of his department. Since the last session lodges were organized at Goodland, Lima, Evansville, LaGrange, Carbon, Sardinia, Greensburg, Vevay, Mitchell, Tipton, Milan, Otterbein, Centerville, Princeton, Russiaville, Morristown, Butler, Darlington, Gosport, Huntingburg, Hartsville, Spiceland, Silver Lake, Coal Bluff, Elwood, Campellsburg, Tunnelton and Paoli, and the lodges at Petersburg and Bloofield were reorganized. One lodge surrendered its charter, making the present number of active organizations 153, a gain of thirty for the year. The active membership is 9,862, a net gain of 2,257 for the year ending December 31, 1886. Of the number seventeen are past grand chancellors, 1,465 past chancellors 1,189 knights, eighty esquires and 111 pages. The total receipts for the year, added to balance on hand per last report, makes a grand total of $9,597,99. Orders were drawn on the master of exchequer for $5,443.52, leaving cash on hand $4,154.47. The assets of the grand lodge show a total of $4,781.66, and the liabilities $229.08, making the net assets $4,552.58. Among the recommendations by the grand keeper of records and seals is that the grand lodge should be incorporated under the laws of the state. He also calls attention to the progressive character of the Pythian papers, among which is numbered the Pythian Journal.

Following this report was that of George Webster, jr., grand master of the exchequer, his accounts tallying with the reports previously submitted in its financial aspect.

History of the Christian Church.

On behalf of the Christian Church, Elder M. L. Blaney, the pastor deposited in the corner stone of the new Y. M. C. A. a copy of his book entitled "The Law of Pardon," upon the back of which was inscribed the following:

The "Christian Church" corner of Jefferson and Griffith streets, Fort Wayne, Ind., where the "Disciples of Christ" assemble each Lord's day to "break bread" in memory of Christ's death, was erected in 1874, under the supervision of Elder N. J. Aylesworth the first pastor of the congregation. The first person baptised into this faith in this city, was a young lady by the name of Mary G. Griffith, now Mrs. Vaughn, of Louisville, Ky., she was immersed in 1837 by Elder J. B. New, father of John C. New, late assistant treasurer of the United States. No organization was effected till 1870, when Elder N. J. Aylesworth began the work with seven members, two of whom Mrs. Elizabeth Rhinesmith and her daughter Miss Sue Rhinesmith are still living in the city. The names of the pastors who have served the church respectively, are: Elders N. J. Aylesworth, W. T. Mason, W. P. Aylesworth, G. P. Ireland, G. P. Slade and W. L. Blaney, the present pastor.

Jail Delivery.

PARIS, Ill., June 7.—The prisoners at the county jail made their escape last night by digging through the brick wall in the office. There are four of them and they went east, as the police were informed last night that they were seen at the bridge two miles east of here.

A Joint Kick.

PARIS, June 7.—The French and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople have objected in behalf of their governments to the ratification by the porte of the Anglo-Turkish convention relating to Egypt. M. Nolidoff, the French representative, told the sultan it might cost him his throne if he concluded the treaty, and charged the English government with bribing the grand vizier and other high officials. The charges, which are stoutly denied by those implicated, will create a profound sensation in diplomatic circles.

At it Themselves.

NEW YORK, June 7.—According to an Albany special to Mr. Blaine's New York organ, Governor Hill is trying to "sow seed of dissension in the ranks of organized labor." The governor may as well save himself the trouble. The seeds have already been profusely sown, and the harvest is even now being gathered.

The rival labor organizations of New York are fighting each other with much vigor as they have ever shown in their warfare upon the capital. The Central Labor union has condemned the executive committee of the Knights of Labor for declaring a boycott against a well-known carpet firm which, it is asserted, employs only union workmen and pays the "best wages in the trade." This boycott has created a great stir in labor circles, and threatens to make a big breach in the Powderly society.

The Pole and Its Torch.

When located by Sir James Ross in 1831, the north magnetic pole was on the west side of the peninsula of Boothia Felix, some fourteen hundred miles nearer to us than the geographical pole or earth's axis. Since then, however, its position must have changed some hundreds of miles, as, from some unknown cause, it is not stationary but is moving westward at a rate which takes it around the earth on a particular parallel in one thousand to two thousand years. The needle of the compass now points due north on a meridian passing through Western Dakota or Eastern Montana, and turns to about northwest in England, though at the time the mariner's compass was brought from China the needle pointed near north from England. The aurora borealis, like other magnetic phenomena, follows the same westward course in its given latitude, and is manifested to a certain distance from the magnetic pole. It does not reach Pekin, on the opposite side of the earth from us, though the display is often very brilliant at Philadelphia in the same latitude; but as the magnetic pole passes onward, the aurora will be seen father south in the opposite hemisphere and farther north than this, thus favoring each northern country in turn with its beautiful effects.

He Didn't Complain.

Jinks—Don't you object to your wife wearing such an enormously high hat, Binks?

Binks—No, not at all. I complained of it once, and she said she would take off an inch for every drink I refused.

Jinks—No wonder you don't complain any more.—Tid Bits.

A Clear Complexion.

How can you expect a clear complexion when the blood is full of impurities and the stomach clogged? The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples and eruptions. Purify the blood with Simmons Liver Regulator, and regulate the liver stomach and bowels, and then skin will become clear.

Not Yet.

"Does this road desire to be exempt from the long-and-short-haul provisions of the Interstate Bill?" asked the reporter as he entered the President's office.

"Well, not quite yet. We are now engaged in stealing three miles of street and four acres of ground of the city, and have fifty-two suits for injuries to passengers to defend, and we are not exactly prepared to meet the Commissioners yet."—Wall Street News.

The unprecedented success that has attended our great sale of men's suits has induced us for the coming week, to offer still greater bargains. We have just received about 500 new suits, bought this late in the season from a manufacturer for "spot cash," and all latest production of suits, at a positive reduction of 33⅓ per cent. off regular prices. Young Women Who Give Too Much Attention to Fashion.

The newspaper wit aims his shafts of humor at no object with such keen pleasure and delight as when he directs them at the modern young woman, her caprices and tendencies. And it must acknowledged that he does so not without cause in many instances. While there are thousands of young women who represent what is best and highest in young womanhood, whose purposes in life extend beyond the frivolities of dress and outward adornments, there are, on the other hand, "as a joke that's just begun," to borrow an expression from a popular opera.

These young women live under the delusion that social distinction, beauty of person richness of apparel make the woman. They are slaves to custom and fashion, and revel in external attractions. They accept the glittler for the gold, the heraldry and trappings of the world for the priceless essence of woman's worth which exists within the mind. Their highest attainment is not the possession of a true womanhood, but that their position in society may be of a conspicuous order, and thereto they bend all their energies. Hours are spent over the latest fashion plates, while days are given over to the making and perfecting of new apparel. They forget that a true woman exists independent of outward embellishments, that dress is regarded by many as only the ivy that encircles the oak, and is never mistaken for the thing it adorns.

It is not the queen of fashion that sways the scepter of influence or authority over men. It is in the hand of the true, noble and virtuous woman that authority is placed, and where she dwells there may refinement, culture, intelligence and moral power be found. The influence of such a young woman upon society is of the most salutary kind.

But what is that of the reigning society belle? Men may admire her for the moment, when, in brilliantly lighted parlors, her beauty and charms dazzle the eye; but what are the after conclusions? "Silly creature, wrapped up in herself and the world," was the comment of an apparent admirer upon a young belle after an eventful social occasion in New York only a few weeks since. Fashion and folly never gained an ounce of respect worth the possession, and never will. Young women, alas! too often mistake adulation for respect, only to find at the end that it was but hollow mockery, and, like a pyrotechnic display, prepared for the occasion.

A true young woman's ambitions stretch beyond the ball-room and the milliner's establishment. She wisely strives to make her life grand in womanly virtues, and by her examples inspires other to secure the same priceless crown of womanhood. This is the woman that commands the respect and admiration of the world, not temporarily, but permanently. In her, friends recognize a rich store of practical good sense, and a beautiful harmony about her character that at once inspires sincere respect, which soon warms into love.—Brooklyn Magazine.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine tan at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. Merchant Tailoring.

Although we have kept adding new workmen to this department so as to in a measure keep up with the immence trade we have been doing, it has been a hard task. On Saturday we completed arrangements, so that we are in shape to get all work out in a few days time. Our stock has been kept constantly replenished, and we still have a good assortment of goods on hand. The "great cut in prices" we inaugurated at the commencement of the season, make it possible for any one to enjoy the benefit of a "suit made to order." Come and look at our line of goods and learn our prices. Perfect fit guaranteed.

VITIATED BLOOD.

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your Cuticura Remedies, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your Cuticura Remedies a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Locchburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S Com. J. D. Crawford.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your Cuticura Remedies for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw cured by the use of five bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, Cuticura, and Cuticura Soap. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggist, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS INHERITED,

And contagious humors, with loss of hair, and eruptions of the skin, are positively cured by Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Cuticura Resolvent internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of Sanford's Radical Cure, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent and an improved inhaler, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Finding Pharaoh.

In a line of tombs beyond the Rameseum lived four sturdy Arabs named Abd-er-Rasoul. They supplied guides and donkeys to tourists who desired to visit the ruins of Thebes, and sold them genuine and spurious antiquities. When they found a mummy, it being forbidden by law to sell it, the head and hands and feet were wrenched off and sold on the sly, while the torso was kicked about the ruined temples until the jackals came and carried it away. I purchased a head and hand of one of the brothers amid the dark shadows of the temple at Qurneh. Early in 1881 circumstantial evidence pointed to Ahmed Abd-er-Rasoul as the one who knew more than he would tell. Prof. Maspero caused his arrest, and he lay in prison at Keneh for some months. He also suffered the bastinado and the browbeating of the women repeatedly; he resisted bribes, and showed no melting mood when threatened with execution. His lips told no more than the unfound tomb—and not as much. Finally his brother Mohammed regarded the offer of "bakshish," which Prof. Maspero deemed it wise to make, as worth more to him than any sum he might hope to realize from future pillaging, and made a clean breast of the whole affair. How the four brothers ever discovered the hidden tomb has remained a "family secret." On July 5, 1881, the wily Arab conducted Herr Emil Brugsch Bey, curator of the Bulaq Museum, to Deir-el-Bahari and pointed out the hiding-place so long looked for. A long climb it was, up the slope of the western mountain, till, after scaling a great lime-stone cliff, a huge, isolated rock was found. Behind this a spot was reached where the stones appeared to an expert observer and tomb-searcher to have been arranged "by hand," rather than scattered by some upheaval of nature. "There," said the sullen guide; and "there" the enterprising Emil Brugsch Bey, with more than Egyptian alacrity, soon had a staff of Arabs at work hoisting the loose stones from a well into which they had been thrown. The shaft had been sunk into the solid limestone to the depth of about forty feet, and was about six feet square. Before going very far, a huge palm-log was thrown across the well and a block and tackle fastened to it to help bring up the debris. When the bottom of the shaft was reached a subterranean passage was found which ran westward some twenty-four feet and then turned directly northward, continuing into the heart of the mountain straight except where broken for about two hundred feet by an abrupt stairway. The passage terminated in a mortuary chamber about thirteen by twenty-three feet in extent and barely six feet in height. There was found the mummy of King Pharaoh of the Oppression, with nearly forty others of kings, queens, princes, and priests.—The Century.

Heedless Children.

Though many children are put down as heedless, there are very few real heedless children. There is always some good and sufficient reason for the apparent heedlessness of most of the little ones, and if the parents of these children would take the trouble to examine into the cause they would be very soon convinced that the little ones were not to blame. But most parents will not do this; they have firmly settled it to their own satisfaction that a child is heedless, and no amount of argument will convince them to the contrary. Through thoughtlessness or willful heedlessness, which should be applied more properly to such parents than to the child, they brand the boy with a fault which it is very likely he never had. This is certainly wrong. It is unjust to themselves and the child. It is a sad thing, nevertheless it is true, that when such parents sit in judgment on their own child, they are the most cruel of all judges, for they persist in convicting without a particle of evidence but their own biased opinion. The child very soon learns that his own denials do not help him, and quietly submits to the decree, notwithstanding his little heart is sore from the injustice that has been done to him.

"Willie is such a heedless boy," you may hear some of them say. "I have called him twice and he never pretends to hear me, I don't know what to do with him." "But," remarks some one, "perhaps he doesn't hear you." "Oh, he hears me, fast enough, for yesterday he was twice as far away and he answered my first call." Such a person never stops to reason or think for a moment that the child may be deaf on one side, or that a catarrhal affection may affect his hearing some days more than others. These parents are fond of quoting the old adage: "There are none so deaf as those who won't hear," although the companion: "There are none so blind as those who won't see," would be more applicable to themselves.

I remember one child branded with this one fault, who was otherwise an intelligent, bright little fellow, with whom you could not think of associating the charge of heedlessness, yet his parents being the accusers, it was hard to form an opinion. At the solicitation of a friend of the family, the mother brought him to a well-known aurist for examination, and was horrified to learn that the hearing of one ear had been totally destroyed by a catarrhal trouble which had been wholly overlooked by both parents. This child had been reprimanded often, even in the presence of strangers, for a fault which he did not possess, and of which he had no knowledge whatever.

Be careful, then, how you charge a child with heedlessness; be convinced, not by your own "infallible" opinion, but by competent medical authority, that his hearing is sound ere you accuse him of this failing. It may seem a little thing to us, but the remembrance of an act of injustice toward a child will linger long in the little one's memory, and is very often never obliterated—American Cultivator.

What Spiders Can Do.

Spiders are certainly very clever, their talent does not lie in one direction only, they are clever all around; they are rope-makers, silk manufactures, spinners, weavers, tent-makers, potters, masons, raft manufacturers, navvies—witness their tunnels—diving-bell makers; they hunt, they dive, they run along the water, they skate, and they are aeronauts. Among these last are the garden spider, the labyrinthine spider, the aeronautic spider, and the gossamer spider, and this is how the aeronautic exploits are achieved. When they want to cross a stream or a chasm, or to rise to some height, they first of all spin a little piece of rope and fasten it firmly to some object; they then cling to this strand with their feet, and with their heads downwards, raise the lower part of their bodies into the air, and as soon as they feel the lighest current of air they throw off from their spinnerets a yard or two of silk; this being covered with viscid globules, is sure to adhear to some other object, and as soon as the spiders feel this is the case they tighten it by gathering it up and gumming it together, and then venture across their cable bridge, spinning a second line as they go to strengthen the first. Sometimes they suspend themselves from this bridge, and descend, spinning a rope, on which to effect the downward journey as they go: at others they will throw out a quantity of gossamer, and as a current of air wrafts this upwards they mount aloft upon it. The common-house spider, which always spins a horizontal web, and therefore could not trust to committing a floating thread to the wind, works on a different plan. She walks around to the opposite side from which she has fastened he web, carrying it with her, and then draws it up and tightens it, and as the strength of the web depends upon this first cable she, like all other spiders crosses and recrosses this, and tests it by swinging her whole weight on it until she is quite satisfied as to its power of indurance. Another spider, often seen on windows on a summer's day, is the leaping spider; and if watched it will be seen to justify its name by taking short leaps, frequently alighting on a fly or gnat, which it has previously marked down as its prey. It will jump in any direction, because it is always suspended by one of its own silken ropes, which it spins as it leaps, and by it returns to its former place. This spider makes a silken nest among leaves or stones—an oval bag, open at both ends. It uses the nest as a place of retreat during the winter or in bad weather, or when it is moulting, or tired from its hunting expeditions, for it belongs to the group of hunting spiders, and makes no net or web though occassionaly it contracts a tent.—Sunday Magazine.

New Light on the Subject.

A little man with gray eyes rushed into the smoking-room of a Pullman car on the Chicago & Atlantic Railroad, and, taking a safety-match from the safe on the wall, began scratching the percussion end on the wood-work. Two baldheaded men who were sitting in the compartment smiled serenely as they watched the little fellow's vain efforts to strike a light.

"You can't light one of those matches unless you strike the emery paper on the side of the safe," said one of the spectators, becoming annoyed at the rasping noise.

The "greeny" smiled complacently and said he guessed he could.

Another match was rubbed along the panels of the room, then across the sole of a big right foot, and finally broken in a diagonal sweep over a pantaloon leg.

"You can't do it, I tell you," repeated the same spectator, shifting his position.

"Betcher $5 I can," replied the little man.

"But you will light it on your cigar."

"No, sir; do you want to cover that bet?"

"Certainly."

"And does your friend want another $5 of it?"

"Of course," said the other speculator, speaking for himself.

Four $5 bills were piled upon one another in quick order, and then the little man took a match from the safe, walked to the door, and rubbed the percussion head along the ground, flinty glass. The little stick burst into flame and burned rapidly as the little man picked up the four bills and walked out upon the platform to enjoy the crisp air. After he had gone the baldheaded men spoke to one another in a strange tongue.—Chicago News.

The Del Sarte System.

"Gracefulness," says La Rochefoucauld, "is to the body what good sense is to the mind," and to judge from the success of the Del Sarte system, this is also the opinion of fashionable women. But while good sense is verily a gift of the gods, the followers of Del Sarte believe grace to be a matter of cultivation. At any rate, the popular teacher of this accomplishment find the hours of the day too few to accommodate her pupils, and society is quite flooded with young women who move by rule, and whose every gesture has been acquired at so much a lesson. It is very amusing to watch the antics of these accomplished young persons, and one quite longs to stand a dozen of them into line and note how nearly their movements are the same. They make the most bewitching little pictures, enter and leave a room or carriage, to the admiration of all beholders; salute their acquaintances and friends with just the proper shading of cordiality; walk correctly, stand correctly, seat themselves artistically, and are, in fact, such models of grace that the most impartial observer is moved to say "Thank you" to the author of all this perfection. There is a suggestion in all this of the methods of Dickens' Mrs. General, with her "papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes, and prisms."—"Rutterkin," in Chicago Journal.

What you need is medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

A PRINTING-PRESS by which blind persons are enabled to print the raised letters, now universally used by them, has been invented.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, from which I have suffered two years. I tried many other medicines, but none proved so satisfactory as Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS COOK, Brush Electric Light Co., New York City.

Sick Headache

"For the past two years I have been afflicted with severe headaches and dyspepsia. I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have found great relief. I cheerfully recommend it to all." MRS. E. F. ANNABLE, New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Mary C. Smith, Cambridgeport, Mass., was a sufferer from dyspepsia and sick headache. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla and found it the best remedy she ever used.

Remember the Bible reading at the Christian church every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Wabash road increased its earning last month $30,000 over the same month last year.

Mr. John Leichner, the saloon man, has returned from Mount Clemens, but is entirely helpless from paralysis.

Workmen were engaged in cleaning the gutters to-day on East Wayne street, in the vicinity of the Central Grammar school.

The Wabash company are spending considerable money this year in improving their road-bed and rebuilding bridges.

The will of Patrick Owens was filed yesterday. His real estate at Lockport, New York, he leaves to his brother Peter Owens.

The Kings Daughters, of the Berry Street church, will give a floral social next Thursday evening, June 9, in the church parlors.

Miss May Graffe and Miss Mamie De-Wald left for Findlay, Ohio, to-day to vsit relatives and friends during the great natural gas fete.

The Pittsburg and Fort Wayne road led in the freight shipments out of Chicago last neek, carrying 6,932 tons. The Nickel Plate carried 2,126 tons.

Mrs. Laura C. Mace, of Greensburg, Pa., is the guest of Mr. E. B. Kunkle. She came to attend the funeral of her sister, the late Mrs. Harriet Kunkle.

Henry Bloom, of St. Joe township, was swindled out of $1,000 instead of $500, as THE SENTINEL had it once. He is an uncle of Al. Bolman, a cigar maker for Geo. Reiter.

Mrs. Sam Ward, who had been jointly arrested for burglary with her husband was discharged from custody yesterday. She is harmless when weaned from the rascal Sam.

A parrot on East Jefferson street, escaped from its cage this morning and, perched on a neighboring apple tree, attracted the attention of many passers by with its lively talk.

The Lafayette Courier says: "Hon. A. P. Edgerton, of Fort Wayne, one of the Purdue Board of trustees, will preside at the Purdue commencement exercises Thursday."

St. Paul's Catholic church is one of the handsomest in the city. In fact, Fort Wayne can boast of four of the handsomest churches in the west and some style us the "city of churches."

The new officers of the First Baptist church are superintendent, E. W. Lewis; clerk, W. S. Harrison; treasurer, Charles Essig, and trustees, James Gavin, John Wort, S. McMahon and Stephen Chase.

The election for councilman in the Second Ward yesterday resulted in the choice of Mr. Daniel Shordan, republican. The vote was: Shordan, 168; Tresselt, 147; and Carl 96. Shordan's majority 21.

One of the incidents of the bicycle parade last night on East Berry street was a dog fight. A bunch of fire crackers flung in their midst, quelled the disturbance and the dogs repaired to their respective homes.

By some mathematical system the republicans figure a tie in the council and will attempt to elect a member of the school board at the next meeting of the council. They will hardly defeat such an honored member as MR. O. P. Morgan, the treasurer of the board.

Mr. R. F. Kinnaird, who recently resigned from the Muncie road to accept the general passenger agency of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, was married at Kansas City Wednesday evening last to Mrs. Josie Calhoun nee Neff, who formerly clerked for Mrs. A. C. Keel, the Broadway milliner. THE SENTINEL sends its shower of rice after them.

Mr. Lewis Williams at the present time general manager of the Nickel Plate road, has been offered, and it is understood will accept, the general superintendency of the Vandalia line, so elaborately explained in the telegraph columns of THE SENTINEL yesterday. Mr. C. D. Gorham is most prominent among the gentlemen likely to succeed to the general management of the Nickel Plate in the event of Mr. Williams' resignation.

"The Vandalia has not passed from the Pennsylvania's control," emphatically remarked a Pennsylvania official. "Do you suppose that after our company has expended millions in building a road clear across the state of Illinois, after it has put thousands of dollars yearly in betterments on this line, and has drawn 8 per cent. dividends yearly on seven-tenths of the road—which stock it still owns—it proposes to be be dispossessed without striking a blow?"

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rahe celebrated the anniversary of their wooden wedding in a delightful way, at their home on Broadway, last evening. Members of the Saengerbund society made the occasion merry with songs.

The last will of Samuel Shryock was filed yesterday. He bequeaths his property to his two daughters, Mrs. McLachlan and Mrs. Jones, save $200, which he gave to Dr. W. W. Shryock. The daughters are named as executors of the writ.

Jonah Gunter and a party of neighbors from Koscinsko county, came to the city to-day and testified before the grand jury as to the irresponsible mental condition of Sarah Jane Gunter, the unfortunate girl who drowned her babe in the St. Joe river.

Mr. James Reilly, the milkman, was fined $5 and costs by Mayor Muhler this morning for permitting his cows to graze in the city limits, to the detriment of the citizens who pay taxes to protect their property. It cost Mr. Reilly $14.05 cents and he left, muttering deep, dynamite threats.

This morning about 8 o'clock an emigrant train of eight passenger and two baggage cars passed west on the Pittsburg road, and drew quite a large crowd at the depot. Among them were emigrants from Norway and Sweden and other parts of Europe, and they were on their way to Chicago. From there they leave for Wisconsin and other parts of the west to engage in different occupations. A party of eight changed cars and went up to Big Rapids, Mich.

The bicycle boys did not complete the full line of march as advertised for the reason that a gang of cowardly hoodlums demolished so many of the transparencies that the beauty of the procession was greatly marred early in the evening. Several who tried to throw the riders from their wheels by inserting sticks in the spokes, were promptly and properly chastised by the boys, who were obliged to dismount to keep from falling.

On Saturday night, a party of Boston capitalists, composing the Boston Commercial club, will pass through the city on their way east, after having visited several cities of the west. They will be taken from Chicago to St. Paul, and after having viewed that place, will return to Chicago to be banqueted by the Chicago Commercial club, on Saturday night. They will leave that place at 10 o'clock and pass through here at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and arrive at Boston at 9 o'clock on Monday morning.

"LIKE AS IT WERE A MOTH THAT FRETTETH A GARMENT," so will the free alkali, to which many powerful soaps owe their strength destroy your clothing. Professor Silliman, of Yale College, says, "The IVORY SOAP is of remarkable purity . . . . . as a laundry soap it has no superior."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The Pickard Comedy and Specialty company will give a dime show at the Temple Thursday and Saturday evenings.

H. K. Parry and a party of friends left this morning for a few days fishing jaunt on St. Clair Lake, in Steuben county.

A barb wire fence surrounds the grass patch east of the Pittsburg depot. The company will see to it that weary employes do not perch on the dangerous wire.

Attend the entertainment and ice cream and strawberry festival to be given by the Ladies' Auxilliary at the Railroad reading rooms to-morrow (Thursday) evening.

The trees at the market space now afford nice shade to purchasers and venders. They really beautify the square and Mr. John Mohr has reason to be proud of the forest, even though he was censured when he sought the council to set the maples out.

Henry C. Newitt, city attorney of Terre Haute, writes Mayor Muhler, urging a union of Indiana cities to break the Walker patent on certain fire department appliances in use. Mayor Muhler approves such a course and will advise a meeting of city attorneys to consider the subject.

The Nickel Plate is engaged in laying a new track from Harrison to Lafayette streets, and when completed it will be a great convenience to their increasing freight traffic. The city intends to pave the space on the south side of the new track and make it a driveway for the general public, so that part of the city will soon be a favorite driving place.

Although the commencement exercises of the graduating class of the Central Grammar school do no take place until Friday evening the supply of admission tickets is already exhausted. Hundreds have applied to Superintendent Irvin since yesterday for them, but the number issued is already sufficient to fill the hall and of course their requests could not be granted.

A number of boys swarmed on the fence in front of the old city hospital, on Lewis street, last night to view the bicycle parade. As the wheelmen approached the fence broke down, and in the crash a number of the lads were bruised and hurt. Louis Rippe, son of Fred Rippe, foreman for H. C. Paul, injured one of his limbs so severely that Dr. Laubach had to be summoned to attend him.

Messrs. Frank Alderman, Fred Eckert and Fred Beach, representing the Business Men's exchange, had a consultation, on the question of celebrating the Fourth of July, with Mr. D. C. Fisher, treasurer of the Fair association, last night. They will make a joint report to the exchange Monday night next, and it is possible that the Fair people will assist towards the fire works display in the evening.

Deputy United States Marshal Wilkinson came in this morning with Geo. Reynolds, of Warren county, as his prisoner. Reynolds, who is a crude, hard looking fellow, wrote an obscene, filthy letter to Weil Bros., of this city, and for that offense he was arraigned before Commissioner Harper. The evidence against Reynolds was straight, and Mr. Harper bound him over for trial in the sum of $600. In default of bail he will be taken to Indianapolis and lodged in jail to await a final hearing.

Ex-councilman Hettler went south to-day.

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke returned from the north at noon.

Mrs. J. J. Jenkinson is entertaining her mother, from Goshen.

Mr. S. C. Lumbard went south on a brief business trip at noon.

Wing & Mahurin are preparing plans for a $13,000 school house at Van Wert, Ohio.

Affairs at the railroad depots are very quiet and while passenger and freight traffic is steady and active, items of a local interest are so scarce as to even make a reporter's hair stand on end. It is indeed distressing.

Mrs. Jennie Star, eldest daughter of O. E. Bradway, of this city, died at Chicago with rheumatic fever. Her remains will be brought here for burial. Mrs. Star was a sister of Mrs. Louis Schroeder and is favorably remembered by her friends in this city.

Some of the emigrants, who passed through the city this mornidg on the Pittsburg, were liberal patrons of the lunch counter at the depot. Their purchases, however, were mostly in the bulk, and whole loaves of bread, with bottles of coffee, etc., were taken by them to the train to be eaten at their leisure.

Councilman Monahan the other day purchased two ten-cent tickets in a Catholic church fair drawing, held at Arcola. Imagine his surprise and joy this morning when a handsome doll baby, large and pretty as a child, was handed him. The cherub is worth $25, and as Mr. Monahan has an interesting family, he can appreciate his good fortune.

Fred Helling, jr., a young man of twenty years, braced his nerve with bad liquor yesterday and proceeded to the residence of his father, Fred Helling, sr., West Washington street. He took forcible possession of the homestead and only fled when the police approached. He was captured at his home early this morning, and at 10 o'clock was taken before Esquire Ryan to answer the charge of surety of the peace preferred by his father. He was put under bonds of $500 to behave himself and failing to get security, he was committed to jail. He will conclude to do better and in all probability will be realesed.

Our Bicycle Boys.

The finest bicycle parade ever witnessed in the city took place last evening. The streets were thronged with people along the entire line of travel. It was a grand success from beginning to end and the sixty participants covered themselves all over with glory. A number of wheelmen were present from neighboring towns to witness the procession, which was hindered from starting on time by the sudden illness of the horse attached to their supply wagon.

Most of the wheels were tastily decorated in bright colors and the designs and costumes of the riders were unique and original.

The unavoidable delay in starting and the annoyance of vicious boys along the line of march compelled the bicyclists to cut Washington and Jefferson streets from their program, although the thoroughfares named were decorated handsomely.

The fete was a new and notable feature to Fort Wayne and the interest manifested in the tournament will encourage the boys to soon repeat their success.

HJALMAR HJORTH BOYESEN is as strong physically as he is mentally. He is a constant marvel at the seaside resorts, where he spends his summers on account of his long-distance swimming. He picks up a great deal of material for literary work during the season, and resorts unblushingly to flirtations in order to get it. At the close of a vacation on the Isles of Shoals he bade good-by to a young lady, with whom he had carried on a flirtation, with the words: "I am very glad I have met you; you have been worth at least $500 to me."

Fish for Russia's Capital.

The arrangements for supplying St. Petersburg with fish are deserving of notice, says the London Standard. The finest kinds, procured from the northern lakes and rivers in autumn, are preserved alive in ponds fed by the Neva at different points of the capital during the winter, each species having a separate compartment to itself. From reservoirs the municipality derives a revenue of 30,000 rubbles. From the Volga and the Dwina arrive every August 25,000 sterlet to delight the palates of epicures who can afford to pay from 5 to 7 rubbles a pound for the delicacy. Their weight when netted in their native rivers varies from ten to fifteen pounds, of which they lose some 10 per cent. in the waters of the Neva, while, on the other hand, their price is enhanced from two-thirds of a rubble per pound to that already stated. A Berlin banker lately paid 600 rubbles for six of these fish and had them conveyed to his residence in water-tanks specially constructed for the purpose. The poor man's food in lenten time consists mainly of a small fish called netki, which is caught in the lakes and rivers of Pskov in great abundance, and conveyed during winter in a congealed state on sledges to the capital; in summer they are dried in the sun and transported on horseback. Their price in St. Petersburg is suited to the low capacity of purse. White salmon, pike, trout, and other varieties are caught in vast quantities during the spring and autumn in Lake Ladoga and poured into the metropolitan reservoirs. Sturgeon, not in great numbers, but sometimes weighing 250 pounds, are centralized to the central depots from the same place. The yearly value of live fish sent from Ladoga is estimated at 1,000,000 rubbles; 100 vessels containing tanks stored with fish go to and fro six times a year. Smelts and lampreys are netted at the mouth of the Neva and in the Gulf of Finland, and supply an extremely economical article of food for the population of the city. The Finns reap an abundant harvest all the year round with their crayfish, and Revel sends 300,000 measures of Esthonian sardines to the same destination every autumn.

A DASTARD'S DEED.

An Old Citizen of Ozark, While Walking on The Highway, is Shot Down by an Unknown Assassin.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—A special from Ozark, Mo., says: About 2 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday, Mob Meadows, an old citizen of Christian county, living sixteen miles south of Ozark, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin, who was secreted in the woods. He and his wife were walking unsuspectingly along a road through a dense growth of trees and underbrush, when the woman was startled by the report of a gun and saw her husband fall lifeless to the ground. He was shot through the breast with a Winchester rifle. Immediately after the shooting Mrs. Meadows says she saw two men run from an ambush near by. This is the forty third murder in this county since the war.

IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE.

Findlay Jollies Over the Gifts so Bountifully Bestowed Upon Her by Nature.

FINDLAY, O., June 8.—The great natural gas celebration opened here this morning under the most favorable auspices. The city is decorated in the most lavish manner. Fifty-eight arches span Main street, all bearing mottoes, and all arranged with gas pipes and burners, which, upon each night of the festival, will be lighted, and permitted to burn all night. Thirty thousand gas jets will be in flame to-night, besides those heretofore in use. The thirty-one gas wells of Findlay have all been piped into the city to aid in illumination. Crowds have been coming in all day and it is estimated that by night there will be at least 30,000 strangers in the city. The excursion began this morning by a reception of the guests at the chamber of commerce, after which a procession was formed which marched at 9 o'clock to the Lake Erie and Western railroad depot, where special trains carried the party to the grounds, where the corner stone of the Lagrange mill was laid with appropriate ceremonies and amid great applause. After this the corner stones of the other manufacturing establishments were laid in the following order:

Monroe Chair and Furniture company.
Union Roller works.
Offen Coil and Cable Chain works.
Findlay Door and Sash Manufacturing company.
Ohio Lantern works.

A visit was then made to the great gas and oil wells near the city.

This afternoon there was a military drill of the Patriarchs Militant, at Camp Garfield, which contested for $1,000 in prizes: $750 to the best company and $250 to the second best.

The afternoon exercises concluded with a visit to the various manufacturing establishments in operation.

The program to-night, which will be held in the wigwam building, especially built for the celebration, embraces a grand gas illumination and addresses of welcome by E. T. Dunn and a response by General T. F. Powell.

SMALL POX IN CHICAGO.

Several New Cases Develop in the House Where a Victim was Found Saturday.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Several more cases of small-pox were discovered to day in the same house where an Italian was found suffering with the disease Saturday. After the removal of the Italian to the pest house the house was thoroughly fumigated and all the occupants vaccinated, but to late to arrest the spread of the disease. As a consequence several children were prostrated this morning. The children have been running about with others in the neighborhood and doubtless many others have been infected.

A Train Derailed and Several Persons Injured.

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 8. An accommodation train on the St. Louis and Hannibal road was derailed about 4 o'clock yesterday evening, near Frankfort. A lady named Dickinson, from New London, was probably fatally injured. Another lady had an arm broken. Conductor W. R. Richardson had a leg crushed and Brakeman Mallory, a collar bone broken. No cause is assigned.

W. E. Chandler for Senator.

CONCORD, N. H., June 7.—Wm. E. Chandler, late secretary of the navy, is at his summer home at Waterloo, quite sure that before the week is ended he will receive the republican nomination for senator, to succeed the late Austin F. Pike, and that later on that nomination will be ratified by an election. That he has good reason to feel confident everybody familiar with the situation must admit. He is sure of the nomination, but there is some talk of a bolt and he is not so sure of being elected.

A WATER SPOUT.

Portions of Somerset County, Pa., is Inundated and Whole Villages are Swept Away.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—A special from Johnstown, Pa., says: "The flood yesterday was caused by a water spout west of Hoover's Mills, Somerset county, a village on the line of the Somerset and Cambria railroad. This village was entirely under water, and the destruction of property is great. Many thousand logs, belonging to the Latrobe Lumber company, passed here yesterday. The bridge above here was carried off, and the Kernville bridge was also partly destroyed. The one at Coopersdale was entirely swept away; so was the one at Von Lindenau town. The destruction of the property in enormous, but the amount cannot be ascertained now. At Hooversville the work of the flood is appalling. Upwards of twenty residences were washed off their foundations and deposited on the ground. At least 100 families in this borough alone lost everything in the lower story and cellars of their houses.

It is estimated that in the suburbs and this city, 200 people were temporarily rendered homeless and dependant for shelter upon the charity of their more fortunate neighbors. No estimate can be made of the damage at present, but it is thought it will reach $150,000 in this vicinity alone. No lives were lost as far as known.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 8.—Mrs. J. Morrell, relict of the late Hon. D. J. Morrell, died from heart disease last night, supposed to have been caused by water surrounding her house and being several feet in the lower story. Colonel James M. Cooper, a wealthy and influential citizen of Coopersdale, also dropped dead from over excitement. He and Mrs. Morrell were each aged about sixty-five years.

Cora Lee is an adopted daughter of Mrs. Emma Malloy, and the second wife of the dead Graham. The story of the murder in a Missouri cave is familiar.

THE MARKETS.

The Prices From the Great Business Centers of the Country.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The opening of the stock market was weak, the first prices showing declines from ¼ to ¼ per cent, generally though Fort Worth and Denver was up ½ per cent. There was a spurt of activity in the first ten minutes, but it soon died away and became decidedly dull. Late in the hour however, there was again a moderate trading. Prices in the early dealings were irregular, but the movements were insignificant fractions only. The most important being a decline of ¼ per cent. in Kansas and Texas. A general upward movement occurred later, but was followed by a decline. Prices being carried down below the opening figure. At 11 o'clock the market was moderately active, and heavy to weak.

DESPERADOES KILLED.

Two Noted Kentucky Toughs are Shot Down by a Posse of Police.

LOUISVILLE, June 8. A special to the Times gives the following particulars of the reopening of hostilities in Kentucky's most lawless county, Rowan: "The citizens of Morehead are again startled by the killing of three men. Yesterday the town marshal of Morehead, John Manning, had a warrant for the arrest of John and Wm. Logan, sons of the notorious Dr. Henry D. Logan, who is now in the Lexington jail on the charge of murder. Manning went to the house of the Logan boys to arrest them. An old lady said they were not in, when he told her he would have to search the house, and proceeded to do so. As he ascended the stairway, the Logan boys, who were concealed above, fired upon him, inflicting fatal wounds. Manning's posse of two men, who were with him, returned the fire of the Logan boys, killing both.

The Iron and Steel Workers.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—At the convention of the amalgamated association of iron and steel workers this morning, a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to regulate the output in the different mills and to secure uniformity prices of work in different mills. One of the principal changes to be made in the constitution is the introduction of a clause admitting colored skilled workmen to membership. This is to be done as a precaution against their joining the Knights of Labor.

An Indiana Man Murdered.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 8.—The body of Logan Belt was found to-day on the road in a dense wood near Shawneetown with a bullet through his heart. He left Shawneetown at 10 o'clock last night on horseback, for home. His horse came home riderless at 2 o'clock this morning. Years ago Belt was tried for murder and acquitted. It is feared that more tragedies will follow.

ANOTHER COLLISION.

The Pittsburg Fast Line Dashes Into a Freight Train at Columbiana, Ohio, Last Night.

PITTSBURG, June 8. The fast line west on the Fort Wayne and Chicago road, which left the city shortly before 12 o'clock last night, ran into a freight train at 2 o'clock this morning, at Columbiana, Ohio. Several freight cars were wrecked and the engine of the passenger train almost completely demolished. Engineer Overland sustained a fracture. The passengers were badly shaken up, but no one was injured. The trains were delayed several hours.

Charley Weaver's Body.

The body of Charley Weaver had not been recovered from the St. Mary's river at 3 o'clock to-day, although every agency known has been utilized to bring it to the surface.

Cartridges have been exploded and seemingly every foot of the river has been dragged. Some incline to the belief that the remains are in the whirlpool.

HOUGHTON, Mich., June 8.—The Quincy rork house and the drum house were struck by lightning this morning and totally destroyed. Loss, $40,000. Insurance unknown.

Looking for His Dove.

A couple newly married—stopped at the Ryan Hotel for the night. They hailed from somewhere in the valley of the Red district, and had money enough to make a small ripple in the city. The bride retired early, but the groom, still feeling his oats, went out to see the town. He visited a number of the prominent resorts, and about midnight found himself in the hotel elevator. Calmly trafficking the hoist boy with his eye, he addressed him: "My boyish, swhere's my bridesh? Swhere's my turtle dove?"

The boy, of course, could not answer him. But finding the number of his room, he attempted to take him there.

"No sher" said the inebriate. "Takhic—warsh shmy cooing dove. She's the roosh of the valley, she is."

Everybody in the rooms along the hall was awake by this time, and several heads peeped over the transoms.

"She a a—a—hic—lamish," he continued, "a swan of the shea. Wherish she? Thaish what I want—hic to know? Whose stole my cuckoo from mesh?"

By this time they were at the door of his room. It suddenly opened, a hand and arm clothed in white was thrust out, and the unfortunate yanked in with a terrific jerk and this remark:

"Here's your rose of Sharon and lily of the valley, you blamsed old fool. Go to bed!"—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Daily Sentinel

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1887.

THE democratic administration is beyond reproach.

THE Michigan legislature is working on the liquor question.

GOVERNOR GRAY is instilling a wholesome purity into some of the state institutions.

THE recent cloud burst in Ohio may have been aimed at Senator Sherman's presidential boom.

THE Indianapolis republicans do not seem to be jubilant over the election fraud investigations since their local chairman was indicted.

HON. JOSEPH E. MCDONALD has accepted an invitation to speak at the great democratic barbecue at Lexington, Ky., Wednesday, June 15.

In accordance with Mayor Stuart's proclamation, the Lafayette Salvation Army have dispensed with singing and tambourine music in their street parades. This is a sensible reform.

THE latest journalistic gossip from New York is to the effect that Charles A. Dana is to retire from active service on the Sun at the close of the year, to be succeeded as editor-in-chief by his son Paul.

THE latest falsehood sent out by the American correspondents at Rome is that the pope is considering the subject of marriage for priests. It is as likely as the oft repeated story of the pope's removal to America.

THE death of Mr. Wheeler leaves Hannibal Hamlin the only living ex-vice president chosen by the people. He will be seventy-eight years of age in August, and he was elected vice president twenty-seven years ago.

THE Northern Indiana editorial convention at Warsaw, this week, promises to be the most successful and interesting ever held. The published program and the pleasant surroundings at the Tri-lake resort are entertaining and agreeable.

MR. BLAINE duly consulted the "republican machine" before he sailed for Europe. Chairman Jones, it is presumed, will set it in motion to grind out reminders of the Maine statesman, who ruthlessly frowns on Mr. Sherman's boomlet.

HON. ANDREW M. SWEENEY has just been elected for the fourth time the superintendent of the Dubois county public schools. The professor went down last fall with the other gentlemen on the democratic state ticket, but his neighbors, who know him best, continue to honor him.

THE stoppage of the special New York mess train on Sundays, by order of the state railroad commission, is a severe blow to the New York city newspapers, and will deprive 100,000 families of that state of their Sunday morning newspapers. It will possibly increase attendances at the churches, however.

UNDER a new law of congress governing contests for seats in the house of representatives, General Clark, the clerk of the latter body, has received and sent to the public printer the testimony in four contested election cases. The cases are known as Frank against Glover, of Missouri; Smalls against Elliott, of South Carolina; Lowry against White, of Indiana, and Worthington against Post, of Illinois.

JUDGE S. S. LUDLOW, of Fort Wayne, died yesterday at Washington, where he held a position in the pension department. Judge Ludlum was a familiar figure in Fort Wayne, having for a long time been associated in the publication of the Journal with Mr. Clark Fairbank and the late Thomas J. Foster. He was a man of considerable ability, and while at the capitol was a correspondent of the Fort Wayne News, as well as a contributor of the Indianapolis Journal.

Sadly Afflicted.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "State House Commissioner Nelson has returned from Fort Wayne, where he attended the funeral of his son, DeGroff Nelson, sheriff of Allen county. The deceased was always an active and influential democrat, receiving the largest vote of any candidate on the county ticket at the last election. Commissioner I. D. G. Nelson has been peculiarly afflicted by family deaths of late. In addition to the death by drowning of his twelve-year-old grandson on the day of his father's nomination for sheriff, he has been called to attend the following family funerals within the last few weeks: Mrs. Delia Reed, mother of his son-in-law and close family friend for more than a third of a century, his aged sister, Faira, the last of the family in direct line, his nephew, Henry B. Ramsey, who so heroically gave his life in trying to snatch a child from the flames of the Richmond hotel conflagration in Buffalo; Judge Samuel E. Sinclair, and now his oldest son, the sheriff of the county, in the prime of life and fullness of health and usefulness."

THERE are more schools in France than in any other country in Europe.

PYTHIAN CONVOCATION.

Meeting of the Grand Lodge in Annual Session—The Reports.

The grand lodge Knights of Pythias of the state met in Castle hall, at Indianapolis yesterday, in nineteenth annual session, with a large attendance of representatives.

The report of the grand chancellor, Charles F. Worrell, congratulated the order on its prosperous condition in Indiana, where it now has 173 lodges, an increase of thirty during the last year.

The chancellor in his report set forth at length his decisions on sixty one questions, which have been submitted to him. The decisions of Chilton lodge in the case of Ernest Mueller, in disciplining him for selling liquor was affirmed, the particular point in it being that a subordinate lodge has the right to prohibit any person from joining the lodge or becoming a member thereof, who is engaged in selling liquor. Of the uniform rank Mr. Shirely says:

"Too much praise cannot be given to the uniform rank. While it is thought by many that this is the ornamental rank of the order, yet it gives tone and rank and vigor to the order, and is an attraction that leads many a brave and noble youth to join the lodge. In addition to this, it affords a military education and familiarity with the tactics of war that in another hour of peril and danger, which this nation underwent during the dark days of the late rebellion, it might prove of some consider able advantage to the national government.

Of the endowment rank he says:

"The endowment rank has proven itself a very worthy adjunct to the order at large. Furnishing a cheap and ready life insurance, it has on many occasions, when the grim monster of death has stalked into the family circle and taken therefrom the husband and father, proven itself a valuable friend and assistant so far as this world's goods concern us. It should be encouraged and fostered by all members of the order, and, I desire to add, jealously guarded that it may be kept in its present excellent and efficient condition. I especially recommend it to all the new lodges, and trust that they will not be slow in organizing a section of the endowment rank within their lodges."

The address, which had much to commend it in a literary way, concluded with an admonition to the Knights to be faithful to the cause and work unceasingly for it.

Frank Bowers, grand keeper of records and seals, also submitted a lengthy and comprehensive report, giving the details of the work of his department. Since the last session lodges were organized at Goodland, Lima, Evansville, LaGrange, Carlton, Sardinia, Greensburg, Vevay, Mitchell, Tipton, Milan, Otterbein, Centerville, Princeton, Russiaville, Morristown, Butler, Darlington, Gosport, Huntingburg, Hartsville, Spiceland, Silver Lake, Coal Bluff, Elwood, Campbellsburg, Tennessee and Paoli, and the lodges at Petersburg and Brookfield were reorganized. One lodge surrendered its charter, making the present number of active organizations 153, a gain of thirty for the year. The active membership is 9,862, a net gain of 2,257 for the year ending December 31, 1886. Of the number seventeen are past grand chancellors, 1,462 past chancellors, 1,189 knights, eighty esquires and 111 pages. The total receipts for the year, added to balance on hand per last report, makes a grand total of $9,597.99. Orders were drawn on the master of exchequer for $5,443.52, leaving cash on hand $4,154.47. The assets of the grand lodge show a total of $4,781.66, and the liabilities $229.06, making the net assets $4,552.58. Among the recommendations by the grand keeper of records and seals is that the grand lodge should be incorporated under the laws of the state. He also calls attention to the progressive character of the Pythian papers, among which is numbered the Pythian Journal.

Following this report was that of George Webster, jr., grand master of the exchequer, his accounts tallying with the reports previously submitted in its financial aspect.

History of the Christian Church.

On behalf of the Christian Church, Elder M. L. Blaney, the pastor deposited in the corner stone of the new Y. M. C. A. a copy of his book entitled "The Law of Pardon," upon the back of which was inscribed the following:

The "Christian Church" corner of Jefferson and Griffith streets, Fort Wayne, Ind., where the "Disciples of Christ" assemble each Lord's day to "break bread" in memory of Christ's death, was erected in 1874, under the supervision of Elder N. J. Aylesworth the first pastor of the congregation. The first person baptised into this faith in this city, was a young lady by the name of Mary G. Griffith, now Mrs. Vaughn, of Louisville, Ky., she was immersed in 1837 by Elder J. B. New, father of John G. New, assistant treasurer of the United States. No organization was effected till 1870, when Elder N. J. Aylesworth began the work with seven members, two of whom Mrs. Elizabeth Rhinesmith and her daughter Miss Sue Rhinesmith are still living in the city. The names of the pastors who have served the church respectively, are: Elders N. J. Aylesworth, W. T. Mason, W. F. Aylesworth, C. P. Ireland, C. P. Slade and W. L. Blaney, the present pastor.

Jail Delivery.

PARIS, Ill., June 7.—The prisoners at the county jail made their escape last night by digging through the brick wall in the office. There were four of them and they went east, as the police were informed last night that they were seen at the bridge two miles east of here.

A Joint Kick.

PARIS, June 7.—The French and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople have objected in behalf of their governments to the ratification by the porte of the Anglo-Turkish convention relating to Egypt. M. Nelidoff, the French representative, told the sultan it might cost him his throne if he concluded the treaty, and charged the English government with bribing the grand vizier and other high officials. The charges, which are stoutly denied by those implicated, will create a profound sensation in diplomatic circles.

At It Themselves.

NEW YORK, June 7.—According to an Albany special to Mr. Blaine's New York organ, Governor Hill is trying to "sow seed of dissension in the ranks of organized labor." The governor may as well save himself the trouble. The seeds have already been profusely sown, and the harvest is even now being gathered.

The rival labor organizations of New York are fighting each other with much vigor as they have ever shown in their warfare upon the capital. The Central Labor union has condemned the executive committee of the Knights of Labor for declaring a boycott against a well-known carpet firm which, it is asserted, employs only union workmen and pays the "best wages in the trade." This boycott has created a great stir in labor circles, and threatens to make a big breach in the Powderly society.

The Pole and Its Torch.

When located by Sir James Ross in 1831, the north magnetic pole was on the west side of the peninsula of Boothia Felix, some fourteen hundred miles nearer to us than the geographical pole or earth's axis. Since then, however, its position must have changed some hundreds of miles, as, from some unknown cause, it is not stationary but is moving westward at a rate which takes it around the earth on a particular parallel in one thousand to two thousand years. The needle of the compass now points due north on a meridian passing through Western Dakota or Eastern Montana, and turns to about northwest in England, though at the time the mariner's compass was brought from China the needle pointed near north from England. The aurora borealis, like other magnetic phenomena, follows the same westward course in its given latitude, and is manifested to a certain distance from the magnetic pole. It does not reach Pekin, on the opposite side of the earth from us, though the display is often very brilliant at Philadelphia in the same latitude; but as the magnetic pole passes onward, the aurora will be seen farther south in the opposite hemisphere and farther north than this, thus favoring each northern country in turn with its beautiful effects.

He Didn't Complain.

Jinks—Don't you object to your wife wearing such an enormously high hat, Binks?

Binks—No, not at all. I complained of it once, and she said she would take off an inch for every drink I refused.

Jinks—No wonder you don't complain any more.—Ted Bits.

A Clear Complexion.

How can you expect a clear complexion when the blood is full of impurities and the stomach clogged? The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and took off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples and eruptions. Purify the blood with Simmons Liver Regulator, and regulate the liver stomach and bowels, and then skin will become clear.

Not Yet.

"Does this road desire to be exempt from the long and short-haul provisions of the Interstate Bill?" asked the reporter as he entered the President's office.

"Well, not quite yet. We are now engaged in shoeing three miles of street and four acres of ground of this city, and have fifty-two suits for injuries to passengers to defend, and we are not exactly prepared to meet the Commissioners yet."—Wall St. Net News.

The unprecedented success that has attended our great sale of men's suits has induced us for the coming week, to offer still greater bargains. We have just received about 500 new suits, bought this late in the season from a manufacturer for "spot cash," and all latest production of suits, at a positive reduction of 33⅓ per cent. off regular prices. We offer same to our customers at the above reduction. The line comprises everything now in the clothing line.

Young Women Who Give Too Much Attention to Fashion.

The newspaper wit aims his shafts of humor at no object with such keen pleasure and delight as when he directs them at the modern young woman, her caprices and tendencies. And it must acknowledged that he does so not without cause in many instances. While there are thousands of young women who represent what is best and highest in young womanhood, whose purposes in life extend beyond the frivolities of dress and outward adornments, there are, on the other hand, "as a joke that's just begun," to borrow an expression from a popular opera.

These young women live under the delusion that social distinction, beauty of person richness of apparel make the woman. They are slaves to custom and fashion, and revel in external attractions. They accept the glitter for the gold, the lorality and trappings of the world for the priceless essence of woman's worth which exists within the mind. Their highest attainment is not the possession of a true womanhood, but that their position in society may be of a conspicuous order, and thereto they bend all their energies. Hours are spent over the latest fashion plates, while days are given over to the making and perfecting of new apparel. They forget that a true woman exists independent of outward embellishments, that dress is regarded by many as only the ivy that encircles the oak, and is never mistaken for the thing it adorns.

It is not the queen of fashion that sways the scepter of influence or authority over men. It is in the hand of the true, noble and virtuous woman that authority is placed, and where she dwells there may refinement, culture, intelligence and moral power be found. The influence of such a young woman upon society is of the most salutary kind.

But what is that of the reigning society belle? Men may admire her for the moment, when, in brilliantly lighted parlors, her beauty and charms dazzle life eyes; but what are they after your opinions? "Silly creature, wrapped up in herself and the world," was the comment of an apparent admirer upon a young belle after an eventful social occasion in New York only a few weeks since. Fashion and folly never gained an ounce of respect worth the possession, and never will. Young women, alas! too often mistake adulation for respect, only to find at the end that it was but hollow mockery, and, like a pyrotechnic display, prepared for the occasion.

A true young woman's ambitions stretch beyond the ball-room and the milliner's establishment. She wisely strives to make her life grand in unmanly virtues, and by her examples inspires others to secure the same priceless crown of womanhood. This is the woman that commands the respect and admiration of the world, not temporarily, but permanently. In her, friends recognize a rich store of practical good sense, and a beautiful harmony about her character that at once inspires sincere respect, which soon warms into love.—Brooklyn Magazine.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. VITIATED BLOOD.

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Decatur, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your Cuticura Remedies, and take this opportunity to inform you that they have permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your Cuticura Remedies a trial.

F. S. WHITLINGER, Lowsburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James R. Richardson, Customs House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body, until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in two years. In 1880 I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Comr. J. H. Crawford.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your Cuticura Remedies for years, and have the first complaint not to receive. From them we have had one of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw cured by the use of five bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, Cuticura, and Cuticura Soap. They have taken the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kas.

SCROFULOUS INHERITED,

And contagious humors, with loss of hair, and eruptions of the skin, are positively cured by Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Cuticura Resolvent internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them to any one in need thereof. The demand for these goods as their merits become known.

PIMPLES, blackheads, skin humors and baby humors, use Cuticura Soap.

Choking Catarrh

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat, and pressing the cruel fingers in your throbbing chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to escape from these terrible nightly catarrhal nightmares? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling it with the most dismal and gloomy notions! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous matter! All cases yield to the effects of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy when applied in accordance with directions. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys! Nothing but suicidal. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of Sanford's Radical Cure, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to their fellow sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each package contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent and an Improved Inhaler, with full directions for using them, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Finding Pharaoh.

In a line of tombs beyond the Ramesseum lived four sturdy Arabs named Abd-er-Rasoul. They supplied guides and donkeys to tourists who desired to visit the ruins of Thebes, and sold them genuine and spurious antiquities. When they found a mummy, it being forbidden by law to sell it, the head and hands and feet were wrenched off and sold on the sly, while the torso was kicked about the ruined temples until the jackals came and carried it away. I purchased a head and hand of one of the brothers amid the dark shadows of the temple at Qurneh. Early in 1881 circumstantial evidence pointed to Ahmed Abd-er-Rasoul as the one who knew more than he would tell. Prof. Maspero caused his arrest, and he lay in prison at Kosch for some months. He also suffered the bastinado and the browbeating of the women repeatedly; he roasted lentils, and showed no melting mood when threatened with execution. His lips told no more than the unfound tomb—and not as much. Finally his brother Mohammed regarded the offer of "bakshish," which Prof. Maspero deemed it wise to make, as worth more to him than any sum he might hope to realize from future pillaging, and made a clean breast of the whole affair. How the four brothers ever discovered the hidden tomb has remained a "family secret." On July 5, 1881, the wily Arab conducted Herr Emil Brugsch Bey, curator of the Bulaq Museum, to Deir-el-Bahari and pointed out the hiding-place so long looked for. A long climb it was, up the slope of the western mountain, till, after scaling a great lime-stone cliff, a huge, isolated rock was found. Behind this a spot was reached where the stones appeared to an expert observer and bomb-searcher to have been arranged "by hand," rather than scattered by some upheaval of nature. "There," said the sullen guide; and "there" the enterprising Emil Brugsch Bey, with more than Egyptian alacrity, soon had a staff of Arabs at work hoisting the loose stones from a well into which they had been thrown. The shaft had been sunk into the solid limestone to the depth of about forty feet, and was about six feet square. Before going very far, a huge calcareous stone was thrown across the well and a block and tackle fastened to it to help bring up the debris. When the bottom of the shaft was reached a subterranean passage was found which ran westward some twenty-four feet and then turned directly northward, continuing into the heart of the mountain straight except where broken for about two hundred feet by an abrupt stairway. The passage terminated in a mortuary chamber about thirteen by twenty-three feet in extent and barely six feet in height. There was found the mummy of King Pharaoh of the Oppression, with nearly forty others of kings, queens, princes, and priests.—The Century.

Heedless Children.

Though many children are put down as heedless, there are very few real heedless children. There is always some good and sufficient reason for the apparent heedlessness of most of the little ones, and if the parents of these children would take the trouble to examine into the cause they would be very soon convinced that the little ones were not to blame. But most parents will not do this; they have firmly settled it to their own satisfaction that a child is heedless, and no amount of argument will convince them to the contrary. Through thoughtlessness or willful heedlessness, which should be applied more properly to such parents than to the child, they brand the boy with a fault which it is very likely he never had. This is certainly wrong. It is unjust to themselves and the child. It is a sad thing, nevertheless it is true, that when such parents sit in judgment on their own child, they are the most cruel of all judges, for they persist in convicting without a particle of evidence but their own biased opinion. The child very soon learns that his own denials do not help him, and quietly submits to the decree, notwithstanding his little heart is sore from the injustice that has been done to him.

"Willie is such a heedless boy," you may hear some of them say. "I have called him twice and he never pretends to hear me, I don't know what to do with him." "But," remarks some one, "perhaps he doesn't hear you." "Oh, he hears me, fast enough, for yesterday he was twice as far away and he answered my first call." Such a person never stops to reason or think for a moment that the child may be deaf on one side, or that a catarrhal affection may affect his hearing some days more than others. These parents are fond of quoting the old adage: "There are none so blind as those who won't look," although the companion: "There are none so blind as those who won't see," would be more applicable to themselves.

I remember one child branded with this one fault, who was otherwise an intelligent, bright little fellow, with whom you could not think of associating the charge of heedlessness, yet his parents being the mentors, it was hard to form an opinion. At the solicitation of a friend of the family, the mother brought him to a well-known aurist for examination, and was horrified to learn that the hearing of one ear had been totally destroyed by a catarrhal trouble which had been wholly overlooked by both parents. This child had been reprimanded often, even in the presence of strangers, for a fault which he did not possess, and of which he had no knowledge whatever.

In case full, then, how you charge a child with heedlessness; be convinced, not by your own "infallible" opinion but be competent medical authority, that his hearing is sound ere you accuse him of this failing. It may seem a little thing to us, but the remembrance of an act of injustice toward a child will linger long in the little one's memory, and is very often never obliterated.—American Cultivator.

What Spiders Can Do.

Spiders are certainly very clever. Their talent does not lie in one direction only, they are clever all around, they are rope makers, silk manufactures, spinners, weavers, lost makers, potters, mason, raft manufacturers, navigators, whose their tunnels—diving-bell makers; they hunt, they dive, they run along the water, they skate, and they are aeronauts. Among these last are the garden spider, the labyrinthine spider, the arcuate spider, and the gossamer spider, and this is how the aeronautic exploits are achieved. When they want to cross a stream or a chasm, or to rise to some height, they first of all spin a little piece of rope and fasten it firmly to some object; then they cling to this strand with their feet, and with their back turned towards, raise the lower part of their bodies into the air, and as soon as they feel the lightest current of air they throw off from their spinnerets a yard or two of silk; this being covered with viscid globules, is sure to adhere to some other object, and as soon as the spiders feel this is the case they tighten it by gathering it up and gumming it together, and then venture across their cable bridge, spinning a second line as they go to strengthen the first. Sometimes they suspend themselves from this bridge, and descend, spinning a rope, on which to effect the downward journey as they go; at others they will throw out a quantity of gossamer, and as a current of air wafts this upwards they mount aloft upon it. The common house spider, which always spins a horizontal web, and therefore could not trust to committing a floating thread to the wind, works on a different plan. She walks around to the opposite side from which she has fastened he web, carrying it with her, and then draws it up and tightens it, and as the strength of the web depends upon this first cable she, like all oldi r spiders, crosses and recrosses this, and tests it by swinging her whole weight on it until she is quite satisfied as to its power of indurance. Another spider, often seen on windows on a summer's day, is the leaping spider; and if watched it will be seen to justify its name by taking short leaps, frequently alighting on a fly or gnat, which it has previously marked down as its prey. It will jump in any direction, because it is always surrounded by one of its own silken ropes, which it spins as it leaps, and by it returns to its former place. This spider makes a silken nest among leaves or stones as an oval bag, open at both ends. It uses the nest as a place of retreat during the winter or in bad weather, or when it is moulting, or tired from its hunting expeditions, for it belongs to the group of hunting spiders, and makes no net or web though occasionally it contracts a tent.—Sunday Magazine.

New Light on the Subject.

A little man with gray eyes rushed into the smoking-room of a Pullman car on the Chicago & Atlantic Railroad, and, taking a safety match from the safe on the wall, began scratching the percussion pad on the wood-work. Two baldheaded men who were sitting in the compartment smiled serenely as they watched the little fellow's vain efforts to strike a light.

"You can't light one of those matches unless you strike the emery paper on the side of the safe," said one of the spectators, looking annoyed at the rasping noise.

The "greeny" smiled complacently and said he guessed he could.

Another match was rubbed along the panels of the room, then across the sole of a big right foot, and finally broken in a dog and smirp over a pantaloon leg.

"You can't do it, I tell you," repeated the same spectator, shifting his position.

"Belcher $5 I can," replied the little man.

"But you will light it on your cigar."

"No, sir; do you want to cover that bet?"

"Certainly."

"And does your friend want another $5 of it?"

"Of course," said the other speculator, speaking for himself.

Four $5 bills were put upon one another in quick succession, and then the little man took a match from the safe, walked to the door, and rubbed the percussion head along the ground, flinty glass. The little stick burst into flame and burned rapidly as the little man picked up the four bills and walked out upon the platform to enjoy the crisp air. After he had gone the baldheaded men spoke to one another in a strange tongue.—Chicago News.

The Del Sarte System.

"Gracefulness," says La Roche-foucauld, "is to the body what good sense is to the mind," and to judge from the success of the Del Sarte system, this is also the opinion of fashionable women. But while good sense is rarely a gift of the gods, the followers of Del Sarte believe grace to be a matter of cultivation. At any rate, the popular teacher of this accomplishment find the hours of the day too few to accommodate her pupils, and society is quite flooded with young women who move by rule, and whose every gesture has been acquired at so much a lesson. It is very amusing to watch the action of these accomplished young persons, and one quite longs to stand a dozen of them in line and note how nearly their movements are the same. They make the most bewitching little pictures, enter and leave a room or carriage, to the admiration of all beholders; salute their acquaintances and friends with just the proper shading of cordiality; walk correctly, stand correctly, seat themselves artistically, and are, in fact, such models of grace that the most impartial observer is moved to say "Thank you" to the author of all this perfection. There is a suggestion in all this of the methods of Dickens' Mrs. General, with her "papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes, and prisms."—Rutherford, in Chicago Journal.

What you need is medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

A PRINTING-PRESS by which blind persons are enabled to print the raised letters, now universally used by them, has been invented.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, from which I have suffered two years. I tried many other medicines, but none proved so satisfactory as Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS COOK, Brush Electric Light Co., New York City.

Sick Headache

"For the past two years I have been afflicted with severe headaches and dyspepsia. I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have found great relief. I heartily recommend it to all." MRS. E. F. ARNOLD, New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Mary C. Smith, Cambridgeport, Mass., was a sufferer from dyspepsia and sick headache. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla and found it the best in nearly all the cases.

THE CITY NEWS.

Wabash, Indiana, is putting down water mains.

Messrs. Falk and Lamley were at Logansport yesterday.

The Fair association will have a base ball game among other attractions July 4th.

Mr. John White, manager of the White wheel works, went to Niagara Falls yesterday.

Remember the Bible reading at the Christian church every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Wabash road increased its earning last month $39,000 over the same month last year.

Mr. John Leichner, the saloon man, has returned from Mount Clemens, but is entirely helpless from paralysis.

Workmen were engaged in cleaning the gutters to-day on East Wayne street, in the vicinity of the Central Grammar school.

The Wabash company are spending considerable money this year in improving their road-bed and rebuilding bridges.

The will of Patrick Owens was filed yesterday. His real estate at Lockport, New York, he leaves to his brother Peter Owens.

The Kings Daughters, of the Berry Street church, will give a floral social next Thursday evening, June 9, in the church parlors.

Miss May Graffe and Miss Mamie Ina Wald left for Findlay, Ohio, to-day to visit relatives and friends during the great natural gas fete.

The Pittsburg and Fort Wayne road led in the freight shipments out of Chicago last week, carrying 6,632 tons. The Nickel Plate carried 2,126 tons.

Mrs. Laura C. Mace, of Greensburg, Pa., is the guest of Mr. E. B. Kunkle. She came to attend the funeral of her sister, the late Mrs. Harriet Kunkle.

Henry Bloom, of St. Joe township, was swindled out of $1,000 instead of $500 as THE SENTINEL had it once. He is an uncle of Al. Bolman, a cigar maker for Geo. Reiter.

Mrs. Sam Ward, who had been jointly arrested for burglary with her husband was discharged from custody yesterday. She is harmless when weaned from the rascal Sam.

A parrot on East Jefferson street, escaped from its cage this morning and, perched on a neighboring apple tree, attracted the attention of many passers by with its lively talk.

The Lafayette Courier says: "Hon. A. P. Edgerton, of Fort Wayne, one of the Purdue Board of trustees, will preside at the Purdue commencement exercises Thursday."

St. Paul's Catholic church is one of the handsomest in the city. In fact, Fort Wayne can boast of four of the handsomest churches in the west and some style on the "city of churches."

The new officers of the First Baptist church are superintendent, F. W. Lewis; clerk, W. S. Harrison; treasurer, Charles Essig, and trustees, James Gavin, John Wort, S. McMahon and Stephen Chase.

The election for councilman in the Second Ward yesterday resulted in the choice of Mr. Daniel Shordan, republican. The vote was: Shordan, 168; Trumbull, 147; and Carl 96. Shordan's majority 21.

One of the incidents of the bicycle parade last night on East Berry street was a dog fight. A bunch of fire crackers flung in their midst, quelled the disturbance and the dogs repaired to their respective homes.

The purchasing committee of the Wabash has announced that it will protest in court against the payment of the big fees recently allowed the receivers. The fees were $11,200 each which the purchasing committee considers extravagant and as without precedent.

By some mathematical system the republicans figure a tie in the council and will attempt to elect a member of the school board at the next meeting of the council. They will hardly defeat such an honored member as Mr. O. P. Morgan, the treasurer of the board.

Mr. R. F. Kinnaird, who recently resigned from the Muncie road to accept the general passenger agency of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, was married at Kansas City Wednesday evening last to Mrs. Jane Calhoun nee Neff, who formerly clerked for Mrs. A. C. Keel, the Broadway milliner. THE SENTINEL sends its shower of rice after them.

Mr. Lewis Williams at the present time general manager of the Nickel Plate road, has been offered, and it is understood will accept, the general superintendency of the Vandalia line, so elaborately explained in the telegraph columns of THE SENTINEL yesterday. Mr. C. D. Gorham is most prominent among the gentlemen likely to succeed to the general management of the Nickel Plate in the event of Mr. Williams' resignation.

"The Vandalia has not passed from the Pennsylvania's control," emphatically remarked a Pennsylvania official. "Do you suppose that after our company has expended millions in building a road clear across the state of Illinois, after it has put thousands of dollars yearly in betterments on the line, and has drawn 8 per cent. dividends yearly on seven tenths of the road—which stock it still owns—it proposes to be let dispossessed without striking a blow?"

The fire department was at work flushing alley sewers to-day.

Judge Chapin will convene the superior court again to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rabe celebrated the anniversary of their wooden wedding in a delightful way, at their home on Broadway, last evening. Members of the Saengerbund society made the occasion merry with songs.

The last will of Samuel Shryock was filed yesterday. He bequeaths his property to his two daughters, Mrs. McLachlan and Mrs. Jones, save $200, which he gave to Dr. W. W. Shryock. The daughters are named as executors of the writ.

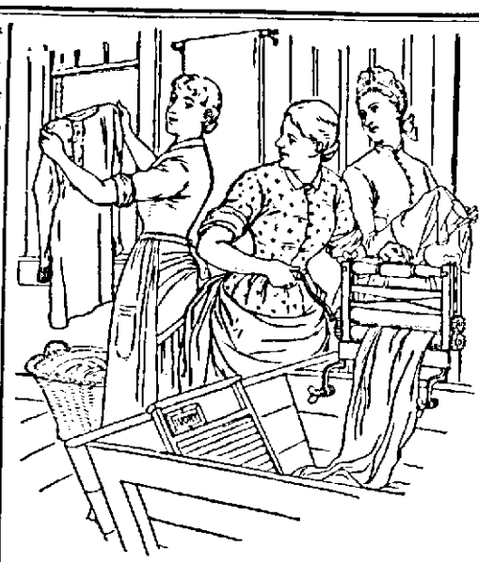
Jonah Gunter and a party of neighbors from Kosciusko county, came to the city to-day and testified before the grand jury as to the irresponsible mental condition of Sarah Jane Gunter, the unfortunate girl who drowned her babe in the St. Joe river.

Mr. James Reilly, the milkman, was fined $5 and costs by Mayor Mahler this morning for permitting his cows to graze in the city limits, to the detriment of the citizens who pay taxes to protect their property. It cost Mr. Reilly $14.05 cents and he left, muttering deep, dynamite threats.

This morning about 8 o'clock an emigrant train of eight passenger and two baggage cars passed west on the Pittsburg road, and drew quite a large crowd at the depot. Among them were emigrants from Norway and Sweden and other parts of Europe, and they were on their way to Chicago. From there they leave for Wisconsin and other parts of the west to engage in different occupations. A party of eight charmed cars and went up to Big Rapids, Mich.

The bicycle boys did not complete the full line of march as advertised for the reason that a gang of cowardly hoodlums demolished so many of the transparencies that the beauty of the procession was greatly marred early in the evening. Several who tried to throw the riders from their wheels by inserting sticks in the spokes, were promptly and properly chastised by the boys, who were obliged to dismount to keep from falling.

On Saturday night, a party of Boston capitalists, composing the Boston Commercial club, will pass through the city on their way east, after having visited several cities of the west. They will be taken from Chicago to St. Paul, and after having viewed that place, will return to Chicago to be banqueted by the Chicago Commercial club, on Saturday night. They will leave that place at 10 o'clock and pass through here at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and arrive at Boston at 9 o'clock on Monday morning.



"LIKE AS IT WERE A MOTH THAT FRETTETH A GARMENT," so will the free alkali, to which many powerful soaps owe their strength destroy your clothing. Professor Silliman, of Yale College, says, "The IVORY SOAP is of remarkable purity . . . . . as a laundry soap it has no superior."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The Pickard Comedy and Specialty company will give a dime show at the Temple Thursday and Saturday evenings.

H. K. Parry and a party of friends left this morning for a few days fishing jaunt on St. Clair Lake, in Steuben county.

A barb wire fence surrounds the grass patch east of the Pittsburg depot. The company will see to it that weary employes do not perch on the dangerous wire.

Attend the entertainment and ice cream and strawberry festival to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary at the Railroad reading rooms to-morrow (Thursday) evening.

The trees at the market space now afford nice shade to purchasers and venders. They really beautify the square and Mr. John Mohr has reason to be proud of the forest, even though he was censured when he sought the council to set the maples out.

Henry C. Newitt, city attorney of Terre Haute, writes Mayor Mahler, urging a union of Indiana cities to break the Walker patent on certain fire department appliances in use. Mayor Mahler approves such a course and will advise a meeting of city attorneys to consider the subject.

The Nickel Plate is engaged in laying a new track from Harrison to Lafayette streets, and when completed it will be a great convenience to their increasing freight traffic. The city intends to pave the space on the south side of the new track and make it a driveway for the general public, so that part of the city will soon be a favorite driving place.

Although the commencement exercises of the graduating class of the Central Grammar school do not take place until Friday evening the supply of admission tickets is already exhausted. Hundreds have applied to Superintendent Irvin since yesterday for them, but the number issued is already sufficient to fill the hall and of course their requests could not be granted.

A number of boys swarmed on the fence in front of the old city hospital, on Lewis street, last night to view the bicycle parade. As the wheelmen approached the fence broke down, and in the crash a number of the lads were bruised and hurt. Louis Rippe, son of Fred Rippe, foreman for H. C. Paul, injured one of his limbs so severely that Dr. Lautzenheiser had to be summoned to attend him.

Messrs. Frank Alderman, Fred Eckert and Fred Beach, representing the Business Men's exchange, had a consultation, on the question of celebrating the Fourth of July, with Mr. D. C. Fisher, treasurer of the Fair association, last night. They will make a joint report to the exchange Monday night next, and it is possible that the Fair people will assist towards the fire works display in the evening.

Deputy United States Marshal Williamson came in this morning with Gen. Reynolds, of Warren county, as his prisoner. Reynolds, who is a crude, hard looking fellow, wrote an obscene, filthy letter to Weil Bros., of this city, and for that offense he was arraigned before Commissioner Harper. The evidence against Reynolds was straight, and Mr. Harper bound him over for trial in the sum of $600. In default of bail he will be taken to Indianapolis and lodged in jail to await a final hearing.

Ex-councilman Hettler went south to-day.

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke returned from the north at noon.

Mrs. J. J. Jenkinson is entertaining her mother, from Goshen.

Mr. S. C. Lambard went south on a brief business trip at noon.

Wing & Maharin are preparing plans for a $13,000 school house at Van Wert, Ohio.

Affairs at the railroad depots are very quiet and while passenger and freight traffic is steady and active, items of a local interest are so scarce as to even make a reporter's hair stand on end. It is indeed distressing.

Mrs. Jennie Star, eldest daughter of O. E. Bradway, of this city, died at Chicago with rheumatic fever. Her remains will be brought here for burial. Mrs. Star was a sister of Mrs. Louis Schroeder and is favorably remembered by her friends in this city.

Some of the emigrants, who passed through the city this morning on the Pittsburg, were liberal patrons of the lunch counter at the depot. Their purchases, however, were mostly in the bulk, and whole loaves of bread, with bottles of coffee, etc., were taken by them to the train to be eaten at their leisure.

Councilman Monahan the other day purchased two ten-cent tickets in a Catholic church fair drawing, held at Avoca. Imagine his surprise and joy this morning when a handsome doll baby, large and pretty as a child, was handed him. The chances is worth $25, and as Mr. Monahan has an interesting family, he can appreciate his good fortune.

Fred Helling, jr., a young man of twenty years, braced his nerve with bad liquor yesterday and proceeded to the residence of his father, Fred Helling, sr., West Washington street. He took forcible possession of the homestead and only fled when the police approached. He was captured at his home early this morning, and at 10 o'clock was taken before Esquire Ryan to answer the charge of surety of the peace preferred by his father. He was put under bonds of $500 to behave himself and failing to get security, he was committed to jail. He will somebody to do better and in all probability will be released.

Our Bicycle Boys.

The finest bicycle parade ever witnessed in the city took place last evening. The streets were thronged with people along the entire line of travel. It was a grand success from beginning to end and the sixty participants covered themselves all over with glory. A number of wheelmen were present from neighboring towns to witness the procession, which was hindered from starting on time by the sudden illness of the horse attached to their supply wagon.

Most of the wheels were tastily decorated in bright colors and the designs and costumes of the riders were unique and original.

The unavoidable delay in starting and the annoyance of vicious boys along the line of march compelled the bicyclists to cut Washington and Jefferson streets from their program, although the thoroughfares named were decorated handsomely.

The fete was a new and notable feature to Fort Wayne and the interest manifested in the tournament will encourage the boys to soon repeat their success.

HALMAR HORTH BOWEN is as strong physically as he is mentally. He is a constant marvel at the seaside resorts, where he spends his summers on account of his long-distance swimming. He picks up a great deal of material for literary work during the season, and resorts unblushingly to flirtations in order to get it. At the close of a vacation on the Isles of Shoals he late good-by to a young lady, with whom he had carried on a flirtation, with the words: "I am very glad I have met you; you have been worth at least $5.00 to me."
